1. Relevance of the strategy

Faculty of Humanities
Contacts between Doc. Šubrt and vice-dean of Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences Prof. Nikolai P. Narbut (University of Peoples’ Friendship of Russia, RUDN in Moscow) were established four years ago. The Program Erasmus+ could help to deepen this contact and enable further academic exchange. Two years ago the Department of Historical Sociology at the Faculty of Humanities of Charles University in Prague opened master and doctoral study programs for English speaking students. The number of applicants for this type of study is so far not very large. We expect that the stay of doc. Šubrt in Moscow could contribute to a deepening of interest in the study of historical sociology in Prague for students from Russia.

Faculty of Social Sciences
In the proposed scheme, we seek to promote cooperation with the top economic school in Russia in order to increase international attractiveness of the Faculty of Social Sciences, Charles University. New Economic School in Moscow is a leading Russian school with an excellent department consisting of graduates of high-ranked E.U. and U.S. schools, including Harvard and MIT. We propose visits of two students who can benefit in visiting a leading economics department in the other country and an exchange of one teacher, who would be able to disseminate his and her research outputs through research seminars or regular class teaching.

Faculty of Physical Education and Sport
Assoc. Prof. Aleksandr Nikolaevich Veraksa, PhD., from the Faculty of Psychology, Moscow State University (MSU).
Moscow State University is the leading institution in Russia in research and education in sport psychology. The Faculty of Psychology, MSU, is looking for a partner for the application of research into practice at the international level, whilst the Faculty of Physical Education and Sport, Charles University in Prague, is very keen to participate and share their own expertise.

Hussite Theological Faculty
The level of university education in Russia has traditionally been very high and the cooperation with the partner institution has been successful – in terms of publishing and research activities – for a number of years. Credit mobility will enable further development of academic relations and exchange of staff and students. The partner universities are very interested in the mobility project and generally in the continuation of their academic cooperation. Southern Federal University (Rostov-on-Don) is recognised as one of the five best and most important universities in Russia.
Faculty of Education
There is a history of successful co-operation of the Faculty of Education (especially the Russian & Language Teaching Methodology Department) with institutions from Russia. We are now particularly interested in co-operation with Penza State University (Пензенский государственный университет, http://www.pnzgu.ru/).
The cooperation will include the student mobility (especially 1 semester study stays) and academic mobility (mainly short term stays, but also stays in order to increase qualifications/capacity building). Except for mobility we will use this possibility to co-operate on scientific projects e.g. in the field of didactics of Russian as a foreign language. Co-operation on preparation of study texts and materials and papers is envisaged. For the future we would be also interested in creating a joint degree or cotutelle programs together (in foreign language didactics).

Institute for Language and Preparatory Studies
In order to improve the quality of international cooperation, which is reflected in raising the level of educational activities and in an effort to significantly promote the mobility of students and academics in various forms, we try to develop our cooperation with Lomonosov Moscow State University which has been lasting already for 2 years. In addition to the planned exchange students should our academic staff at the LMSU teach the Czech language, English and recruit Russian students to study programmes taught in foreign languages (mainly in English) at our university.
We also intend to offer two five-month-long courses for Russian students at the ILPS intensive programmes, either one-semester intensive language course or one-semester programme for students from US universities.

Faculty of Medicine in Hradec Králové
Cooperation with the Russian Federation is relevant to the internationalisation strategy of the higher institution for many reasons, the most important is scientific, research and educational know-how exchange between the Czech and Russian partners. Both students and/or staff mobility will serve to better cooperation (prof. Jirásková)
