With 17 faculties in three different cities, Charles University does not have one central campus. Instead, the faculties, dorms, and refectories are spread around the city (cities, in fact), and some faculties even have their little campuses. Take a look at the map of just the main faculty buildings in Prague:

Individual visits

Given the spatial distribution of our university and the large number of applicants, we are not able to give private tours. Instead, CU Point offers information and guidance to both applicants and current students alike (in-person or online). It is always recommended to make an appointment in advance or join the virtual office hours.

Since we are a public institution, prospective students are welcome to visit and look around our faculty buildings – they are freely open to the public. You may also contact the faculty's Admissions Office and inquire about the possibility of meeting with the faculty representatives or student ambassadors directly. Moreover, all of our faculties hold Open Doors Days.

Interested visitors may also enjoy our University Museum, Botanical Garden and other sightseeing staples (see the left menu for more details or visit a dedicated website). Note that the Faculty of Science provides a number of visiting opportunities in their faculty's overview, which includes the Geopark, Hrdlička Museum of Anthropology, Chlupáč Museum of Earth History, Mineralogy Museum or Herbarium.

Please note that all our offices and faculties are closed during the weekends.
