Constitution of CU

Under section 36 (2) of Act No. 111/1998 Sb., to regulate higher education institutions and to change and amend other laws ("the Higher Education Act"), the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports registered this Constitution of Charles University under ref. n. MSMT-38084/2016 on December 14, 2016.

Mgr. Karolína Gondková
Director of Higher Education Department

THE FIRST CONSOLIDATED CONSTITUTION OF CHARLES UNIVERSITY

We, the members of the Academic Senate, expressing the will of the academic community of Charles University, developing the historic traditions of the oldest higher education institution in Central Europe, being aware of the importance of this University for the development of human knowledge, education, and culture and its mission to serve the truth and to develop the ideals of humanity, endeavouring to promote the ideal of a University as a community in which the mutual relations of its members are determined by spiritual authority rather than by power, in which the principles of academic freedom are seen as an essential basis for the existence of the academic community and its activities, both scholarly and pedagogical, mindful of the deepening of the self-governing and autonomous character of the University as well as its independence from power or political structures, making every effort to provide access to study for everyone who wishes to do so, cherishing the ideal of worldwide cooperation among universities, not only as a basis of international scholarly research and education but primarily as a precondition for the education of new generations in understanding and tolerance, fulfilling the legacy of those who sacrificed their freedom or lives for these ideals, and being led by an effort to resume its place in the family of free universities, a place which has belonged to Charles University since time immemorial, have adopted this

CONSTITUTION

Part I Introductory Provisions

Article 1 Fundamental Provisions

1. Charles University ("the University") is a public higher education institution of university type.
2. The name of the University in Latin is Universitas Carolina.
3. The registered office of the University is in Prague 1, at Ovocný trh 560/5.
4. The University has been in existence since its foundation on April 7, 1348.

Article 2 The Aim and Activities of the University

1. The aim of the University is to spread learning and to protect knowledge; to cultivate free thinking, independent scholarly research, and original artistic creativity; and to fully promote the creative spirit of human society.
2. The University is a self-governing public institution freely carrying out creative scholarly, educational, artistic, and cultural activities, for which academic freedoms and rights are indispensable. The pedagogical activity at the University is based on scientific, research, development, innovative, artistic or other creative activities ("creative activities"), including the results of its own research.
3. The University offers all types of study programmes as well as lifelong learning programmes.
4. The University provides in particular facilities for research, education, and the social life of the University, including library and other information services, and carries out publishing and editing activities. The University cooperates with national and foreign higher education institutions, scholarly and research institutions, and other legal entities, and creates conditions for members of the academic community to participate in such cooperation. The forms and manner of cooperation between the University and other legal entities is usually regulated by a contract.

5. Supplementary activities assist the University in achieving its aim.6

Part II Organisation of the University and its Bodies,

Academic Environment

Article 3 The Division of the University

1. The University is divided into faculties and other units.7

2. The faculties are the basic units of the University.

3. Other units of the University may be higher education institutes, other establishments for educational and creative activities or for the provision of information services or transfer of technologies, as well as special-purpose facilities for cultural and sports activities, accommodation, and catering, to serve primarily the members of the academic community or the needs of the University.

4. The list of faculties and other units is provided in the Rules for the Internal Governance of the University in Appendix No. 1 to the Constitution. The Appendix also provides the names of the University, faculties, and other units in English.

5. The Rector’s Office forms a separate unit of the University.

Article 4 Self-Governance of the University

The self-governance of the University is carried out by the members of its academic community directly or through the self-governing academic bodies.

Article 5 Status of Members of the Academic Community

Members of the academic community are entitled to:

1. nominate candidates for and elect members to the academic senates and to be elected as members of the academic senates;

2. nominate candidates for Rector or dean in the manner prescribed in this Constitution or in the constitution of the faculty;

3. participate in the sessions of the academic senates and research boards unless the sessions of the research boards are declared closed;

4. inspect the minutes of sessions of the academic senates and research boards, including their resolutions;

5. be given the floor at meetings of the members of the academic community;

6. submit motions, comments, and complaints to the self-governing academic bodies; these bodies are obliged to address, process without unnecessary delay, and respond to them.

The University supports the activities of scholarly, specialist, professional, student, trade union, and other interest associations that are members of the academic community and whose activities contribute to the achievement of the aims of the University; the conditions for the support of the extracurricular activities of student members of the academic community are stipulated in the Rules for Supporting Students’ Extracurricular Activities. The University heeds the social needs of the members of the academic community and in its activities and in the activities of the self-governing academic bodies takes affordable measures to make sure that these members have equal opportunities to assert themselves at the University.

The University in particular creates conditions favourable for physical education and sports and cultural life at the University.

Members of the academic community are obliged to observe the internal regulations of the University and of the faculty in which they are members of the academic community or of other establishments where they work.

Members of the academic community are obliged to heed the good reputation of the University. The opinion of the University’s Ethics Commission may be sought for the purposes of evaluation of motions related to this obligation. The details regarding the Ethics Commission of the University and accepting motions are governed by the Code of Procedure for the Ethics Commission issued as a Rector’s directive after discussion in the Academic Senate.

In particular, the members of the academic community are prohibited from:

a. in connection with their membership or status in the academic community, knowingly discriminating against or favouring other persons in a generally unacceptable manner, as well as behaving in an aggressive or offensive manner or threatening human dignity;

6 S. 20 (2) of the Higher Education Act.
7 S. 22 (1) of the Higher Education Act.
8 S. 3 of the Higher Education Act.
9 S. 7 (1) and s. 25 (1) of the Higher Education Act.
10 Ss. 17 and 33 of the Higher Education Act; for other establishments cf. s. 9 (1) (b) of the Higher Education Act.
b. seriously or repeatedly breaching the fundamental rules of academic work at the University;

c. committing a fraudulent or other unfair act in connection with study or involvement in creative activities, or a fraudulent or unfair act towards the University, its unit or its body, a student, or an employee of the University;

d. abusing or handling the results of study or creative activities of another person in an unacceptable manner for the benefit of his own academic activity or his status at the University, foremost plagiarising another person’s work, using part of another person’s work without clearly indicating a quotation (plagiarism) or combining text from several sources (compilation);

e. intentionally seriously damaging the property of the University or seriously abusing the property for one’s own personal benefit;

f. intentionally spreading serious false information about the University, a unit thereof, its body, a member of its academic community, its student, or one of its employees.

Members of the academic community duly perform the duties they have accepted as bodies of academic self-governance or as members of such bodies or arising from other office at the University.

Employees who work as members of the academic community at more than one faculty or unit of the University may vote and be elected members of the academic senate of each of the faculties where they work, or for each unit if they work for any other units of the University. Students enrolled in more than one faculty may vote and be elected members of the academic senate of each of the faculties in which they are enrolled. If in one year they are elected at more than one faculty or unit they may execute only one mandate of their choice, and must submit a declaration to that effect to the main election committee without undue delay after the announcement of the election results, however no later than within seven days of being called upon to make such declaration by the main election committee. If they are elected while they are still members of the academic senate for another faculty or unit, the new mandate extinguishes the existing mandate. Persons who are at the same time members of academic staff and students may vote and be elected members of the academic senate as members of the academic staff as well as students. If they are elected as members of the academic staff as well as students, they may execute only one mandate of their choice, and must submit a declaration to that effect to the main election committee without undue delay after the announcement of the election results, however, no later than within seven days of being called upon to make such declaration by the main election committee. A member of the academic community can at the same time perform only one of the following functions: Rector, Vice-Rector, dean, vice-dean, Chief Financial Officer, secretary to faculty, or director of another unit of the University. The provisions of paragraphs 2 to 9 and 11 apply to employees of the University who are not members of academic staff, by analogy.

Article 6 Activities of Bodies

1. The activities of bodies of the University are governed by Act No. 111/1998 Sb., to regulate higher education institutions and to change and amend other laws (the Higher Education Act), as amended ("the Higher Education Act"), other legal regulations, the Constitution, and by other internal regulations of the University as well as by the internal regulations of the faculties and other units of the University.

2. The activities of bodies of faculties or other units of the University are governed by the Higher Education Act, other legal regulations, the Constitution, and by other internal regulations of the University as well as by the internal regulations of other units of the University.

3. If it becomes apparent that a measure, resolution, or decision of a body of the University, a faculty, or its other unit is contrary to legal regulations or to the internal regulations of the University, the faculty, or unit of the University, such body is obliged to take all possible measures to remedy the situation, including the change or repeal of the decision. If the body remains inactive, contrary to the above-mentioned regulations, the situation is treated with the necessary modifications. This provision does not apply to decisions and other acts undertaken under Act No. 500/2004. Sb., the Administrative Procedure Code, as amended ("the Administrative Procedure Code").

4. In the performance of their powers, mainly in decision-making, the bodies of the University, faculty, or other unit heed the spirit of academic freedom and rights 2) and the principles of the Constitution of the University expressed in its preamble and in the aim of the University (Article 2 (1)).

5. Self-governing academic bodies ensure that the members of the academic community are informed of their activities and have the opportunity to comment on documents and measures of major importance that such bodies are concerned with. They also ensure that the members of the academic community may comment on the activities of such bodies.

Article 7 Academic Senate of the University

1. The Academic Senate of the University ("the Senate") and its members account for their activities to the academic community. While executing their offices, members of the Senate are not bound by the measures or resolutions of the self-governing academic bodies of the faculty where they have been elected, but only by their conscience, and they are obliged to heed the interests of the entire University. A member of the Senate attends its sessions upon the invitation of the academic senate of the faculty where he has been elected or at the invitation of its president. The member of the Senate answers any questions concerning the execution of his office asked by the academic senate of the faculty or by a member of the academic community at the session of the academic senate of the faculty.

11 Ss. 8 and 9 of the Higher Education Act.
2. The Senate is composed of students and members of academic staff elected at the faculties and other units of the University. Each faculty elects two members of the Senate from among students and two members of the Senate from among the academic staff. Two more members of the Senate are elected from among the academic staff at other units of the University.

3. The term of office of members of the Senate is three years, beginning on February 1.

4. The bodies of the Senate are the President, the Vice-President, the Board, and the Commission.

5. The Senate may request the opinion of another body of the University, faculty, or other unit of the University.

6. The Senate has the right to familiarize itself with the conclusions of meetings of other bodies of the University and the Rector’s permanent advisory bodies.

7. If the Senate makes a decision on a matter of a faculty, it requests in advance the opinion of the academic senate and the dean of the faculty.

8. The Senate elections are governed by the Code of Electoral Procedure for the Senate. The activities of the Senate and its bodies are regulated by the Code of Procedure for the Senate.

Article 8 Research Board of the University

1. When appointing members to the Research Board of the University (“the Research Board”) the Rector ensures that the main branches of science and areas of study pursued at the University are represented.

2. Within two months after his appointment, the Rector submits to the Senate a motion to appoint the members of the Research Board.

3. The term of office of the members of the Research Board appointed by the Rector terminates on the last day of the calendar month following the date when the term of office of the next Rector starts.

4. Membership in the Research Board terminates:
   a. on the date of delivery of a written statement to the Rector in which the member resigns his membership in the Research Board;
   b. on the date when the Rector removes a member from the Research Board with the prior consent of the Senate.

5. The Rector may appoint a distinguished scholar who has rendered outstanding service to the University as Honorary Member of the Research Board; an Honorary Member has the right to participate in the sessions of the Research Board without the right to vote. The Rector requires an opinion of the Senate before appointing an Honorary Member to the Research Board.

6. The Research Board may request the opinion of another body of the University, faculty, or other unit of the University.

7. The Research Board has the right to familiarize itself with the conclusions of meetings of other bodies of the University and the Rector’s permanent advisory bodies.

8. The activities of the Research Board are regulated by the Code of Procedure for the Research Board.

Article 9 Internal Evaluation Board of the University

1. The Internal Evaluation Board of the University (“Internal Evaluation Board”) consists of 30 members, of which 4 members are students of the University and 4 members are not employed by the University.

2. The Internal Evaluation Board is chaired by the Rector. A deputy chair is appointed by the Rector from among the members of the academic community of the University who are Full or Associate Professors. The President of the Senate is a member of the Internal Evaluation Board. Other members of the Internal Evaluation Board are appointed by the Rector, of which one third is appointed on the advice of the Research Board of the University and one third on the advice of the Senate. Membership in the Internal Evaluation Board is incompatible with the position of dean. When appointing members of the Internal Evaluation Board the Rector ensures that the main branches of science and areas of study pursued at the University are represented.

3. The term of office of the members of the Internal Evaluation Board appointed by the Rector is four years.

4. Membership in the Internal Evaluation Board terminates:
   a. on the date of delivery of a written statement in which the member resigns his position in the Internal Evaluation Board;
   b. on the date when the Rector removes a member from the Internal Evaluation Board upon previous discussion in the Research Board and with the prior consent of the Senate.

5. In addition to the matters stipulated by the Higher Education Act, the powers of the Internal Evaluation Board include:
   a. granting the right to offer programmes of study submitted by the Rector on the advice of the Research Board of the relevant faculty;
   b. approval of corrective measures in case of deficiencies in the implementation of a programme of study which was granted the right to be offered under letter (a);
   c. approval of a plan to apply for accreditation, or to apply for an extended scope or time of accreditation of programmes of study submitted by the Rector on the advice of the research board of the relevant faculty;
   d. management of the drafting of an application for institutional accreditation for an area or areas of study and for extension of the scope of institutional accreditation with another area or areas of study;

12 Ss. 11 and 12 of the Higher Education Act.
e. audit of compliance with the relevant legal regulations and internal regulations in implementation of programmes of study.

6. The Internal Evaluation Board may request the opinion of another body of the University, faculty, or other unit of the University.

7. The Internal Evaluation Board has the right to familiarize itself with the conclusions of meetings of other bodies of the University and the Rector’s permanent advisory bodies.

8. The activities of the Internal Evaluation Board are regulated by the Code of Procedure for the Internal Evaluation Board of the University.

Article 10 Rector

1. Candidates for Rector are usually professors who are members of the academic community of the University. In addition to the powers granted to the Rector by the Higher Education Act, the Rector is a representative of the University in the representation of higher education institutions under s. 92 (1) (b) of the Higher Education Act.

2. In managing the University the Rector may within the powers granted to him and within the scope of legal regulations and the internal regulations of the University adopt Rector’s directives and University acts in accordance with these directives. If required by an internal regulation of the University, the Senate must give an opinion on a Rector’s directive before it is adopted.

3. The Rector attends a session of the Senate if so requested by the Senate or its President. The Rector answers any questions regarding the execution of his office asked by the Senate or its members during the Senate session.

4. The Rector’s term of office starts on the date of his appointment to the office.

5. The election of a candidate for Rector is called by the Senate in sufficient time as to be held no later than ninety days before the expiration of the term of office of the sitting Rector.

6. Candidates for the position of Rector may be nominated by the academic senate of a faculty, by a group of at least one hundred members of the academic community, or by a member of the Senate.

7. A motion to remove the Rector from office may be proposed to the Senate by the academic senate of the faculty or at least one fifth of the members of the Senate.

Article 11 Vice-Rectors

1. Vice-Rectors are usually Full Professors or Associate Professors who are members of the academic community of the University. The fields of activities of individual Vice-Rectors are determined by the Rector upon an opinion issued by the Senate.

2. The Vice-Rector attends a session of the Senate if so requested by the Senate or its President. The Vice-Rector answers any questions regarding the execution of his office asked by the Senate or its members during the Senate session.

3. The Vice-Rector may convene meetings of vice-deans or other representatives of faculties in relevant fields of activity.

4. The Rector determines which Vice-Rector acts as his deputy in the period of his absence.

Article 12 The Rector’s Permanent Advisory Bodies

1. The Rector’s permanent advisory bodies are in particular the:
   a. Rector’s Board;
   b. Extended Rector’s Board;
   c. Grant Council of the University;
   d. Editorial Board of the University;
   e. History Board of the University;
   f. International Board of the University;
   g. Commercialisation Board; and
   h. Lifelong Learning Board.

2. The members of the Rector’s Board are in particular Vice-Rectors, the Chief Financial Officer of the University (“the Chief Financial Officer”), the Head of the Rector’s Office (“Chief Secretary”), the President of the Senate, and a representative of the University students.

3. The members of the Extended Rector’s Board are in particular the members of the Rector’s Board, faculty deans, and directors of other units of the University.

4. The Grant Council of the University is the Rector’s advisory body in particular for the allocation of funds reserved for the grant agency of the University and of other funds for the support of specific university research. The Rector appoints its members after nominees have been considered by the Research Board; the provision of Article 8 (1) applies by analogy. The details of the system of allocating funds for specific university research are provided in the Grant Rules.

5. The Editorial Board of the University is the Rector’s advisory body for editorial activities. The Rector appoints its members; the provision of Art. 8 (1) applies by analogy. The details of editorial activities, including publishing, are provided in the Editorial Rules.

6. The History Board of the University is the Rector’s advisory body in issues connected to University traditions and the preservation of buildings.

14 S. 10 of the Higher Education Act.
7. The International Board of the University is the Rector’s advisory body for quality and the main directions of the University's educational activities and creative activities from the international point of view.

8. The Commercialisation Board is the Rector’s advisory body on matters of commercialisation of the results of science and research.

9. The Lifelong Learning Board is the Rector’s advisory body on matters of lifelong learning.

10. The members of the Rector’s permanent advisory bodies are appointed and removed from office by the Rector.

Article 13 Chief Financial Officer

1. The Chief Financial Officer ¹⁵ is appointed through a competitive hiring procedure.

2. The Senate expresses its opinion on the Rector’s intention to appoint a Chief Financial Officer.

3. The Chief Financial Officer has the power to dispose of the property of the University to the extent provided in Article 50 (1) (b).

4. The Rector may authorize the Chief Financial Officer in particular to:
   a. manage the Rector’s Office;
   b. act on behalf of the University in other matters connected to financial management and the management of property; and
   c. act on behalf of the University with respect to the employment of employees of the Rector’s Office or other units, but not of the academic staff.

5. In exercising his managerial powers, the Chief Financial Officer may within the scope of legal regulations, the internal regulations of the University, and Rector’s directives adopt directives of the Chief Financial Officer to be applied in the financial management and internal administration of the University or the Rector’s Office.

6. The Chief Financial Officer attends a session of the Senate if so requested by the Senate or its President. The Chief Financial Officer answers any questions regarding the execution of his office asked by the Senate or its members during the Senate session.

7. The Chief Financial Officer co-operates with the Vice-Rectors in the execution of his duties. He has the power to set assignments for the secretaries to the faculties regarding financial management and internal administration the management of which they are responsible for, and to control the fulfilment of these assignments, unless they are regulated by section 24 (1) of the Higher Education Act or by Article 15 (1) and (2) of the Constitution.

8. The Chief Financial Officer convenes meetings of the faculty secretaries to solve issues connected to the financial management and internal administration of the University and faculties.

Article 14 Rector’s Office

1. The Rector’s Office serves the needs of the University. To achieve that end, the Rector’s Office carries out organizational activities, co-ordination, and consultancy activities; keeps records; and exercises control in the areas of study, research, external relations, foreign relations, economy, personnel, law, and internal administration.

2. The Rector’s Office arranges the material and administrative aspects of the activities of the Rector, Vice-Rectors, Chief Financial Officer, Senate, Research Board, Internal Evaluation Board, Administrative Board, Ethics Commission, and other bodies.

3. The Rector’s Office keeps a central register of issues related to the activities of the University specified in Article 2, including issues stipulated in section 24 of the Higher Education Act, and for other cases stated in legal regulations or the internal regulations of the University. The faculties and other units are obliged to provide the necessary information to the Rector’s Office in the scope and manner determined by the Rector’s directive; such Rector’s directive may determine the manner of keeping records under section 57(3) of the Higher Education Act.

4. The details of the organisational structure of the Rector’s Office are provided in the Rules for Internal Governance issued by the Rector in the form of a Rector’s directive.

Article 15 Powers of the Faculties and Other Units

1. The bodies of the faculties make decisions and act on behalf of the University within the scope of legal regulations and the internal regulations of the University:
   a. concerning the matters listed in section 24(2) (a) and (d) of the Higher Education Act in full scope; this does not affect Article 9 (4) (b); and
   b. concerning the matters listed in section 24(2) (b) and (c) of the Higher Education Act in full scope on condition that the acts related to these activities having major importance for the focus or development of these activities or for financial management of the faculty must first be discussed with the Rector.

2. The bodies of the faculties make decisions and act on behalf of the University also in the matters of disposing of the property of the University in the scope stated in Article 50 (1) (c).

3. Directors of other units make decisions and act on behalf of the University:
   a. in matters of disposing of property within the scope stated in Article 50 (1) (d); and
   b. in other matters within the scope stated in other internal regulations of the University.

4. Faculties and other units for which the Rules for the Internal Governance of the University stipulate that the director is vested with management of property are functionally independent in public procurement.

¹⁶ S. 25 (2) of the Higher Education Act.
Article 16 Governance of Faculties and Other Units

1. The dean accounts for his activities to the Rector; the dean’s powers under section 24 of the Higher Education Act and Article 15 (1) and (2) are not affected by this provision. The directors of other units are subordinated to the Rector.

2. The dean and the director of another unit are accountable, within the scope of their powers, to the Rector also for the efficient use of financial resources, settlement of contributions and subsidies, and the due management of the property of the University entrusted to them.

3. In managing the faculty, the dean may within the powers granted to him and within the scope of legal regulations, the internal regulations of the University and of the faculty, and Rector’s directives adopt dean’s directives. The faculty acts in accordance with these directives. If required by an internal regulation of the University or the faculty, the academic senate of the faculty must give an opinion on a dean’s directive before it is adopted.

4. In managing the other unit the director may, within the powers granted to him and within the scope of legal regulations, the internal regulations of the University and of the other unit, and Rector’s directives, adopt director’s directives. The other unit acts in accordance with these directives.

Article 17 Bodies of Faculties and Other Units

1. The bodies of faculties and directors of other units have the right to submit motions, comments, and complaints to the self-governing academic bodies of the University and to the Chief Financial Officer. The bodies of the University are obliged to address, process without unnecessary delay, and respond to them.

2. Self-governing academic bodies and the Chief Financial Officer have the right to submit motions and comments to the bodies of faculties and other units. The bodies of faculties and other units are obliged to address, process without unnecessary delay, and respond to them.

3. The provisions of the Code of Electoral Procedure for the Academic Senate of the faculty apply by analogy to a student elected a member of the academic senate of the faculty who in the course of his term of office after successful completion of the study programme was admitted to study in a subsequent study programme.

Article 18 Using the Premises of the University

1. While using the premises of the University, every person is obliged to behave in such a way that life, health, and property are not endangered, that the academic rights and freedoms of members of the academic community are not curtailed, and that cooperative relations within the academic environment are not damaged.

2. More detailed rules on the use of the premises of the University may be provided by the Rector, by the dean with regard to a faculty, or by the director with regard to another unit.

Part III Study and Students

Article 19 Framework Requirements for Admission to Study

1. The faculty sets the requirements for admission based on sections 48 and 49 of the Higher Education Act.

2. The faculty may stipulate within the requirements for admission that the applicant receives bonus points for meeting specific requirements.

3. The faculty may waive the entrance examination or a part of it if certain requirements stipulated in the Code of Admissions Procedure are fulfilled.

4. If some applicants admitted to study in a given programme of study do not register for study, the dean may supplement the number of admitted applicants with applicants who were not admitted in the original decision due to the limited total number of applicants to be admitted, in the sequence of their place in the order of admissions procedure.

5. If after the deadline for the submission of applications for study in bachelor’s and master’s programmes and post-bachelor study programmes there is an insufficient number of applicants in a given faculty, the dean of the faculty may decide to announce a supplementary admissions procedure.

6. Further details are stipulated in the Code of Admissions Procedure.

Article 20 Application Submission Process

1. An application for study must be submitted before the deadline stipulated in the Rector’s directive for the particular academic year. The application deadline has been met if the application is submitted to the postal service operator on the last day of the deadline.

2. An application for study is submitted via hardcopy of the prescribed form or electronically via the web application form of the University; the means for submitting applications is stipulated by the faculty in the admissions procedure.

3. If an application is submitted late, the faculty terminates the admissions procedure by issuing a resolution.

Article 21 Study

The details regarding the performance of a programme of study, forms, the course of study, and participation in instruction, including the rights and duties of students as well as the manner of publication of successfully defended final theses and theses submitted for defence, are stipulated in the Study and Examination Code.

17 S. 25 (1) and (2) of the Higher Education Act.
18 Article 16 (2) of the Code of Electoral Procedure for the Academic Senate.
Article 22 Programme of Study

1. A programme of study is based on a major subject-area and belongs to one or more areas of study.
2. In the preparation and implementation of programmes of study it is necessary to take into account the effective use of resources together with the optimal degree of integration of educational activities.
3. Programmes of study may be implemented:
   a. autonomously by one faculty;
   b. autonomously by several faculties;
   c. jointly by several faculties; and
   d. according to a), b) or c), with the contribution of a higher education institute.
4. In the case of programmes of study implemented according to c) above, it is necessary to identify the faculty in which the student has enrolled; he is obliged to observe the internal regulations of the respective faculty.
5. A programme of study may be implemented in cooperation with a foreign higher education institution or with a foreign research institution; the draft agreement including the details of foreign accreditation of the programme of study or other form of recognition under the legal regulations of the state where the cooperating foreign higher education institution or research institution is established is submitted to the Rector by the dean after discussion with the research board of the faculty.
6. A programme of study is specified in curricula.
7. The details regarding the submission and discussion of proposals related to the accreditation of programmes of study, institutional accreditation for an area or areas of study, and granting of the authorization to perform a programme of study are stipulated in the Accreditation Code.
8. The guarantor of a programme of study is charged with the coordination of content preparation for the programme of study, supervision of the quality of performance, and assessment and development of the programme of study.
9. Only an eligible member of the academic staff, under legal regulations and the internal regulations, may be appointed a guarantor of a programme of study.
10. A guarantor of a programme of study is appointed and removed from his position:
    a. in the case of a programme of study under paragraph 3 a) and b) by the Rector on the advice of the dean of the relevant faculty and after the research board of the faculty has expressed its opinion; and
    b. in the case of a programme of study under paragraph 3 c) and d) by the Rector on the mutually agreed advice of the deans of the faculties involved, or the director of the higher education institute submitted to the Rector and after the relevant research boards have expressed their opinion.
11. The guarantor of a programme of study coordinates the preparation of curricula that specify the programme of study. On the basis of such proposal and after the relevant research board or research boards have expressed their opinion, the curriculum is issued by the dean of the relevant faculty or by the deans of the faculties involved.
12. The guarantor of a programme of study is concerned with the implementation of the programme of study and is obliged to immediately inform the dean of the relevant faculty or deans of the relevant faculties if the programme of study is implemented at more than one faculty:
    a. of defects in the performance of the programme of study as a result of which the programme of study does not comply with or in the near future may not comply with the standards on the basis of which it was accredited; and
    b. of significant changes in the curriculum or state final examinations having an impact on the profile of the graduate of the programme of study.
13. A subject-area board of a doctoral programme of study has a minimum of five members; at least two-thirds of its members must be from among Associate Professors or Full Professors or persons who attained a comparable position abroad; at least one quarter of its members must not be employees in an employment relationship with the University assigned to the relevant faculty, or to the involved faculties, and at least one member must not be in any employment relationship with the University. 38 Act No. 352/2001 Sb., to regulate the Use of the State Symbols of the Czech Republic and to change other laws, as amended.
1. During an emergency situation, all University bodies and commissions ("the bodies"), faculty bodies, and the bodies of other units may meet and vote remotely (in writing) irrespective of special provisions in the internal regulations of the University or faculty.

2. The provisions applicable to the meetings with a physical presence apply with the necessary modifications to remote meetings of a body.

3. In the case of bodies whose meetings are open to public, the access of the public is also appropriately facilitated.

4. If an emergency situation is declared for the entire University or for several of its units, the Rector in a Rector’s directive. An emergency situation for a faculty is declared by the dean, for another unit by its director, and for the Rectorate by the Bursar, in the form of a directive. An emergency situation may be declared for a period not exceeding 60 days. An emergency situation may be extended repeatedly, for no more than 60 days at a time. Before the extension of the emergency situation, the person who declared it submits to the relevant academic senate a plan to extend the emergency situation and the senate gives an opinion on it. If fewer than 30 days have elapsed since the date of termination of the emergency situation, the procedure is applied by analogy.

5. The notice of declaration of an emergency situation is published without delay in the publicly accessible part of the website of the University or faculty and other unit to which it applies. The person who declared the emergency situation informs without delay the Senate and all academic senates of the faculties to which the emergency situation applies.

Article 66a Emergency Situation

1. An emergency situation may be declared in particular due to a declaration of a state of emergency, condition of threat to the state, state of war, natural disaster, environmental or industrial accident, or an accident or other risk endangering lives or health to a considerable extent.

2. An emergency situation for the University or for several of its units is declared by the Rector in a Rector’s directive. An emergency situation for a faculty is declared by the dean, for another unit by its director, and for the Rectorate by the Bursar, in the form of a directive. An emergency situation may be declared for a period not exceeding 60 days. An emergency situation may be extended repeatedly, for no more than 60 days at a time. Before the extension of the emergency situation, the person who declared it submits to the relevant academic senate a plan to extend the emergency situation and the senate gives an opinion on it. If fewer than 30 days have elapsed since the date of termination of the emergency situation, the procedure is applied by analogy.

3. The notice of declaration of an emergency situation is published without delay in the publicly accessible part of the website of the University or faculty and other unit to which it applies. The person who declared the emergency situation informs without delay the Senate and all academic senates of the faculties to which the emergency situation applies.

Article 66b Crisis Management Committee

1. When declaring an emergency situation, the person declaring it simultaneously appoints a crisis management committee whose tasks are in particular the following:
   a. to monitor and evaluate the situation;
   b. to coordinate the activities of individual faculties, other units, and the Rectorate, and their workplaces;
   c. to participate in the preparation of the measures to be adopted; and
   d. to inform on the adopted measures in the publicly accessible part of the website and via other appropriate means.

2. If an emergency situation is declared for the entire University or several of its units, the Rector appoints a Central Crisis Management Committee ("CCMC"). The members of CCMC are usually the Rector, Bursar, Head of the Rector’s Office, selected Vice-Rectors or members of the Rector’s Board, President of the Senate, a student designated by the Board of the Senate, head of the Security and Occupational Safety Department, head of the Human Resources Department, head of UK POINT, head of the Legal Department, head of Finance Department, head of Public Affairs and Communications Department, head of International Relations Office, head of the Research Support Office, and head of the Student Affairs Department. The CCMC is chaired by the Rector or the Bursar. Every faculty or other unit of the University to which the emergency situation applies immediately appoints a contact person to liaise with the CCMC and to provide information from the CCMC to the dean or director and to inform the CCMC on the current development at the given faculty or other unit.

3. For every faculty, other unit, or the Rectorate where an emergency situation is declared the dean, director, or the Bursar appoints a crisis management committee of the given faculty, other unit, or the Rectorate. The members of the crisis management committee are usually the dean, the secretary, the president of the academic senate of the faculty and a student designated by the academic senate of the faculty, director of another unit, Bursar at the Rectorate, and other representatives of the relevant workplaces. The crisis management committee is chaired by the dean or the secretary at a faculty, director of another unit, and Bursar at the Rectorate. The Bursar is informed immediately of the conclusions of meetings of the crisis management committee.

Article 66c Meeting Held Remotely and Remote Voting (in writing)

1. During an emergency situation, all University bodies and commissions ("the bodies"), faculty bodies, and the bodies of other units may meet and vote remotely (in writing) irrespective of special provisions in the internal regulations of the University or faculty.

2. The provisions applicable to the meetings with a physical presence apply with the necessary modifications to remote meetings of a body.

3. In the case of bodies whose meetings are open to public, the access of the public is also appropriately facilitated.

4. In the case of remote voting, the person entitled to convene the meeting sends a proposal which is to be put to the vote to all members of the body. The proposal contains in particular:
   a. the proposed resolution,
   b. the time limit for expressing the opinion,
   c. information on the mode of voting,
   d. source documents including justification of remote voting on the matter.

5. When voting remotely a member of the body may vote in favour, against, or abstain. If a member of the body does not cast his vote he is presumed to have abstained from voting. The proposal is passed if a majority of all members of the body vote in favour of the proposal. The result of the remote voting is immediately published in the usual way, and the person concerned is notified, if applicable. It is possible to vote remotely on one or more proposals simultaneously, however, the member of the body must always have a possibility to express his opinion on each proposal separately. If a body considers an issue which is decided by secret ballot and the secret ballot cannot be ensured, it is first necessary to hold a remote vote on the possibility to put the issue to the public vote.

6. If necessary, the bodies may vote remotely also on issues where remote voting is excluded in the internal regulations. The necessity to do so is assessed by the board or the chair of the body.

Article 66d Shortening of Time-Limits

1. During an emergency situation it is possible to shorten the procedural time limits applicable to meetings of bodies provided by the internal regulations of the University, faculty, or other unit. It is not possible to shorten in this way the time limits provided in a generally binding legal regulation.

2. The board or the chair of the body which is to consider a document decides on the shortening of the time limits.

Article 66e Elections to Academic Senates

During an emergency situation it is possible to hold elections to the Senate and to the academic senates of faculties partially or fully by electronic means using the computer network, including for the faculties and other units whose internal regulations do not allow such mode of election. This procedure is possible only on the basis of a resolution of the academic senate of the relevant faculty. In the case of elections to the Senate, the main election committee must be notified of the resolution and provided with the document containing the technical details of the organisation, course, and security of such election. The main election committee expresses its opinion within the period of 10 days of delivery of the resolution. It is possible to hold the election to the Senate by electronic means only with the consent of the main election committee. The objections, if any, of the members of the academic community of the faculty are sent to the academic senate of the faculty and to the main election committee.

Part IX Transitional and Final Provisions

Article 67 Transitional Provision Regarding the Internal Regulations of the University

Until the date of effect of the new internal regulations of the University, the current internal regulations of the University will be followed, unless this would be contrary to the Higher Education Act.

Article 68 Transitional Provision Regarding the Internal Regulations of Faculties and Other Units

1. Faculties or other units submit to the Senate proposals for new internal regulations or changes to internal regulations within six months of the date of coming into force of the Constitution or of an internal regulation of corresponding import. These proposals must conform to the valid internal regulations of the University.

2. Until the date of effect of new internal regulations or changes to the internal regulations of the faculty or other unit, the current internal regulations of the faculty or other unit will be followed, unless this would be contrary to the Higher Education Act or the internal regulations of the University.
